

PICKUP TRUCK CAB STYLES

CHEVROLET | GMC

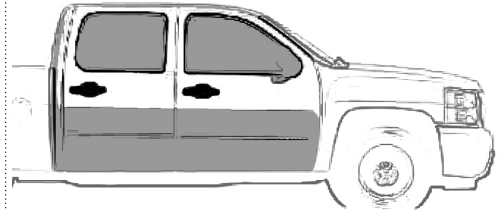

Regular Cab

- 2 doors
- No rear seat(s)

Extended Cab

- You have to open the front door to open the back door
- The front door opens the opposite direction of the back door
- Commonly referred to as 'suicide doors'

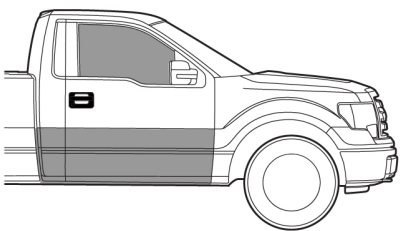

Crew Cab

- 4 full doors, that all open the same direction, like car doors
- All 4 door handles are on the outside of the truck
- Visually, the front and back doors are the same width across

Double Cab (2014 to Current)

- 4 full doors, that all open the same direction, like car doors
- All 4 door handles are on the outside of the truck
- Visually, the back doors are smaller in width than the front doors

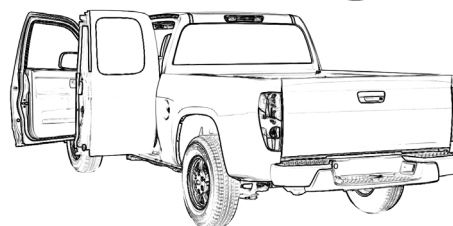

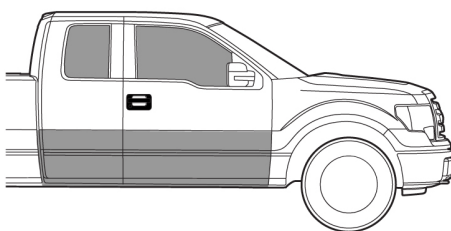

FORD

Regular Cab

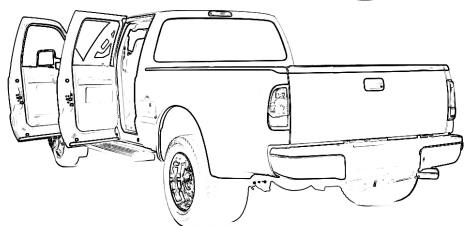

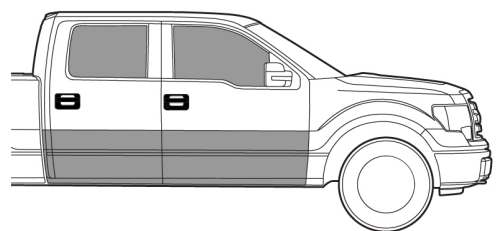

- 2 doors
- No rear seat(s)

Note: 2004-2008 Ford regular cabs are unique because they have 1-2 additional small doors that open opposite the front doors, similar to the SuperCab. This may be confusing when determining your cab style, however, the major difference is the regular cab does not have rear seats.

SuperCab

- You have to open the front door to open the back door
- The front door opens the opposite direction of the back door
- Commonly referred to as 'suicide doors'

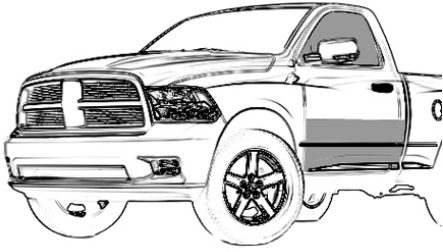

SuperCrew

- 4 full doors, that all open the same direction, like car doors
- All 4 door handles are on the outside of the truck

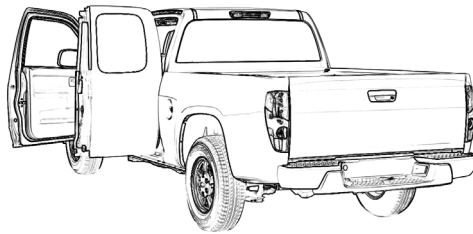

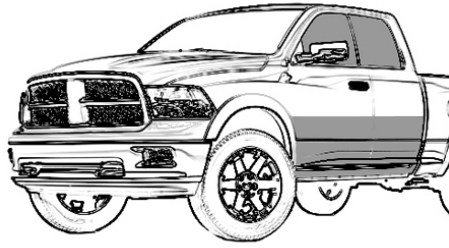

PICKUP TRUCK CAB STYLES

DODGE | RAM

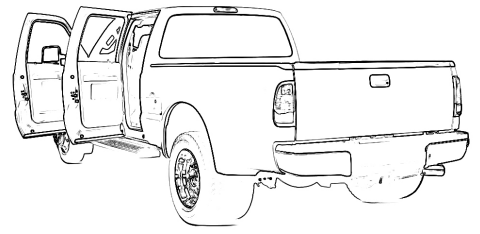

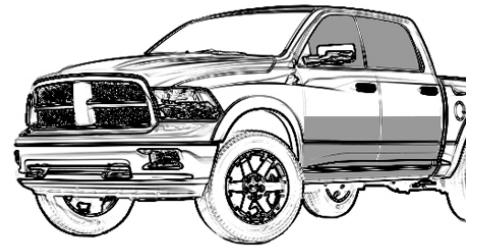

Regular Cab

- 2 doors
- No rear seat(s)

Quad Cab (Old Style)

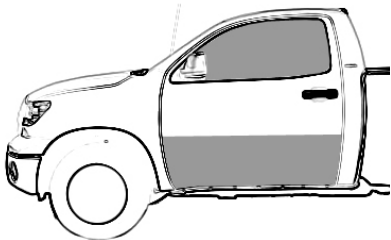

- You have to open the front door to open the back door
- The front door opens the opposite direction of the back door
- Commonly referred to as 'suicide doors'

Quad Cab/Crew Cab (New Style)

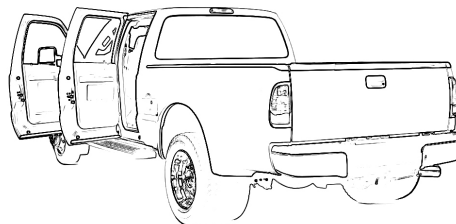

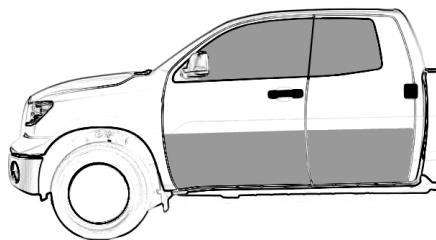

- 4 full doors, that all open the same direction, like car doors
- All 4 door handles are on the outside of the truck

TOYOTA TUNDRA

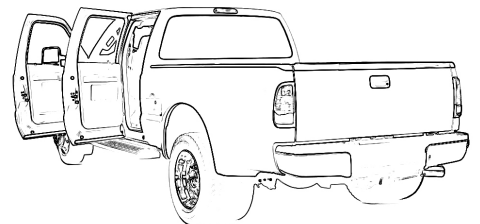

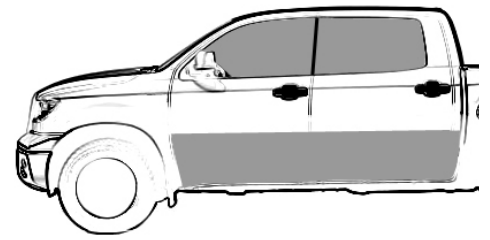

Regular Cab

- 2 doors
- No rear seat(s)

Double Cab

- The handle on the front door is different than the handle on the back door
- 4 doors, all open the same direction, like car doors
- The bottom of the rear seats lift up

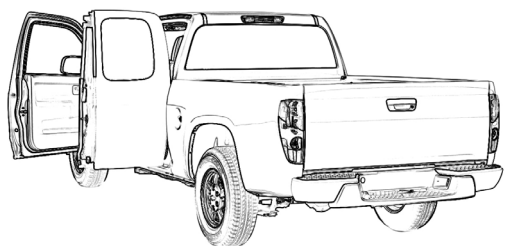

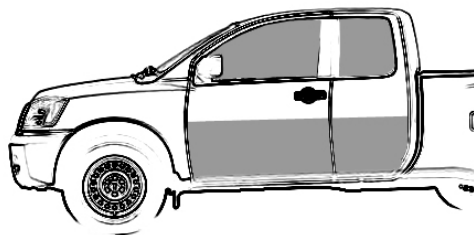

CrewMax

- All 4 door handles look the same
- 4 full doors, that all open the same direction, like car doors
- Rear seats 'slide' forward

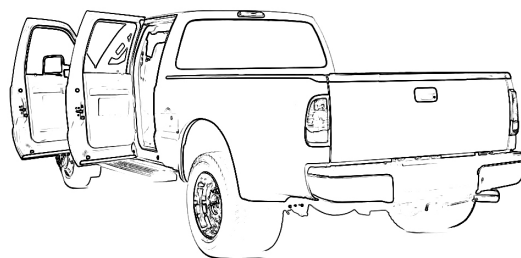

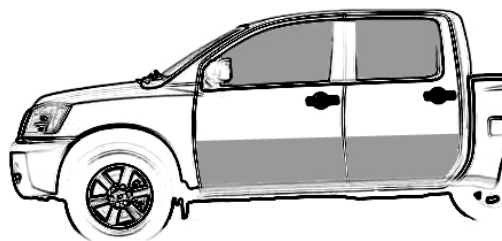

PICKUP TRUCK CAB STYLES

NISSAN TITAN

King Cab

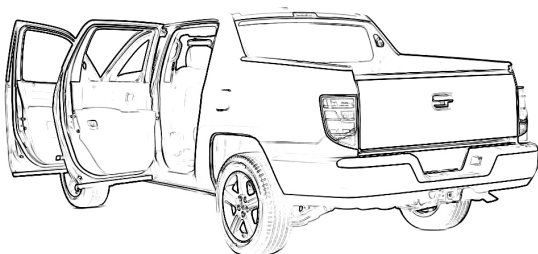

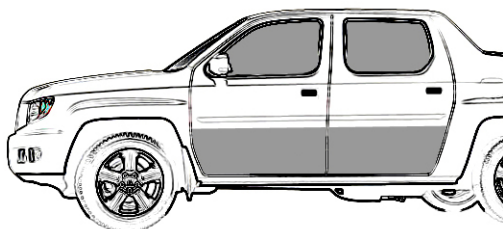

- You have to open the front door to open the back door
- The front door opens the opposite direction of the back door
- Commonly referred to as 'suicide doors'

Crew Cab

- 4 full doors, that all open the same direction, like car doors
- All 4 door handles are on the outside of the truck

HONDA RIDGELINE

Crew Cab

- 4 full doors, that all open the same direction, like car doors
- All 4 door handles are on the outside of the truck